This unique challenge makes full use of all the teams' individual skills in a plethora of simple tasks, very much in the style of the iconic TV show.

This unique challenge pitches individual skills against a plethora of mental and physical tasks very much in the style of the iconic TV show.

Working as teams it will be for each team to select the individual that has the right skill for each separate challenge.

Faced with up to 30 challenges the teams will race around as many as they can within the allocated time frame accompanied by their own facilitator. At each challenge the chosen individual faces the daunting task of not only successfully doing the challenge but under the gaze of their fellow team members – who will flourish and who will wilt under the pressure!

Simplicity is the key to this overall event but it is often the simple things that are our downfall so teams will have to choose the individual skills quickly and decisively to win the overall challenge. Each task lasts no more than 5 minutes and at each challenge you only get 3 lives.

This is a very flexible activity that can be run indoors or out and over a flexible time frame although 2-3 hours is ideal.

Teams win crystals as they complete the challenges and there is an opportunity to add in (at extra cost) a “Grab A Grand” finale, which sees an individual from each of the top 5 teams having to chase specific coloured tickets around the windblown tank. The more crystals they win the more time in there they get!
