

MURDER MYSTERY

A Comedy Entertainment and Interactive Team Game.

Usually played over dinner but can also be played over buffet lunch or an afternoon.

A violinist plays during cocktails. Guests are greeted by a Victorian policeman, protecting a VIP (for example; your CEO or MD).

Immediately prior to dinner, an innocent man (actor supplied by you!) is shot dead in a re-enactment of an incident that took place in the 1890's.

There follows a twenty minute comedy play starring the great detective, Sherlock Holmes, who virtually solves the case. Unfortunately, Sir Arthur Conan Doyle did not complete the story, so it falls to the teams to conclude the investigation. Each team is supplied with a 'Sherlock' Deerstalker and a 'Watson' Bowler hat.

The game is afoot!

Over dinner, teams seek out clues and watch further, short re-enactments involving certain guests. Their challenge is to solve the case and present their conclusion prior to our Dénouement and announcing the winners (by a process of elimination).

Prices vary according to group size and start at £1200.00 + vat for groups of up to 50 with 2 actors.

“ The actors were brilliant, I also never expected the audience participation and now realise, that we have some budding actors amongst our staff, the actors were able to accommodate our foibles and were amazing at remembering all our names (80 people)! ”
