The Rock Idol Experience is a unique and engaging corporate development and team building day. Your team will be hosted by expert musicians and development professionals who will deliver an interactive and dynamic session with a difference!

Through the simple process of team members learning to play an instrument and then perform a popular rock tune together as a band, delegates will be coached on how to play their chosen instrument and encouraged to develop their communication, problem solving and team working skills.

Working in groups of 8-10 they will be supplied with electric guitars, bass guitar, keyboards and drums and in their 45 minute workshop will be given expert advice on how to use their instruments. Having completed the initial training session they move to the Hub where they can listen to, and play with, the other members of the band.

The third session sees the band creating their performance T-shirts and agreeing a band name in preparation for their finale performance in front of the other teams.

We can also provide an evaluation session on how the teams worked together in achieving their performance, always a revealing session!
